FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

URADICS launches range of Awareness Seminars

URADICS is very proud to announce the launch of a range of Awareness Seminars for the benefits of students. The first seminar in this series will focus on creating awareness among students regarding the current situation of the country's manpower employability focussing on the IT Sector.

It has always been a motive of URADICS to create awareness among students. Many students doing professional courses in IT are still not aware of what career options are available, what's on in the industry, current issues etc. We hope that these seminars will help students and eventually create a strong workforce for the benefit of both, the industry and the individual

"It has been a dream come true. I personally have always been a strong believer of awareness driven knowledge. These seminars will help the students in different ways by providing insights into many current issues which might go unnoticed but are of a very important nature." says Pulkit Agrawal, Director, URADICS.
